

This is the smallest police station in the South, if not in the whole US. The old and smallest police station is the kiosk in the right side of the picture. The new police station is the one in the left, in front of which you may see a police car. The picture is taken in Ridgeway, South Carolina.
2000, Copyright A. Petrisor

This is the picture of a magnolia flower, taken in Columbia, South Carolina. This picture participated in several contests and was published in several publications as well as on the WEB, at: <http://www.thephotosite.com/display.asp?ID=167071>.
2000, Copyright A. Petrisor

The oldest continuously operating town clock from the United States can be found in Winnsboro, South Carolina.
2000, Copyright A. Petrisor

Congaree Swamps National Monument, South Carolina. These wetlands are the habitat for various fish, birds, and animals.
August 2001, Copyright A. Petrisor

A storm was coming over Lake Murray in South Carolina. The picture, taken from a boat, surprises the Saint John Catholic Church in Indianapolis, IN.

2000, Copyright A. Petrisor

arrival of the storm.
2000, Copyright A. Petrisor

This small copy of the Statue of Liberty can be found in the downtown of Columbia, SC.
2000, Copyright A. Petrisor

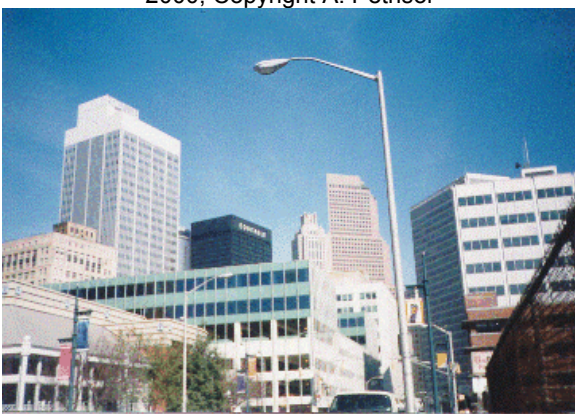

Downtown Indianapolis, IN.
2000, Copyright A. Petrisor

Indiana State House in the downtown area of Indianapolis, IN.
2000, Copyright A. Petrisor

Downtown Indianapolis, IN.
2000, Copyright A. Petrisor

Downtown Atlanta, GA.
2000, Copyright A. Petrisor

Downtown Raleigh, NC.
2000, Copyright A. Petrisor

Atlanta, GA, as seen from the Stone Mountain in the sunset.
August 2001, Copyright A. Petrisor

Downtown Charlotte, NC. Charlotte is one of the large, industrial cities in the Southern area.
August 2001, Copyright A. Petrisor

The famous "Tunnel Vision" in Columbia, SC was painted on one of the large buildings in the downtown Columbia, SC in 1975. Even the "real life" version of this painting is as realistic as it appears in the picture.
August 2001, Copyright A. Petrisor

These seagulls fly in Charleston, South Carolina, trying to get the attention of the tourists and receive few pieces of bread. The picture featured also in several contests.
2000, Copyright A. Petrisor

Manhattan, New York, NY, as seen from the 86th floor of Empire State Building.
August 2002, Copyright A. Petrisor

Solomon Guggenheim Museum- New York, NY
August 2002, Copyright A. Petrisor

Charleston, SC is one of the oldest and most beautiful American Cities. Americans and Europeans, as well as Asians and others, love Charleston at the very first sight. The house featuring in the famous Gone with the Wind, by Margaret Mitchell, is situated at 2 Meeting Street in Charleston. This picture surprises some typical house for the city.
August 2001, Copyright A. Petrisor

The Biltmore Estate in Asheville, NC, built by the Vanderbilt family in 1895, is the largest private residence in the US. A virtual tour can be taken at <http://www.biltmore.com/>.
August 2001, Copyright A. Petrisor

The Sylvan Center in Columbia, SC, a luxury jewel store, is a good example for the old architecture in the South.

August 2001, Copyright A. Petrisor

Every American State has a State House. The State House in Columbia, SC, also known as the Capitol Building, hosts the office of the Governor, the Parliament, and the Senate of the state.

August 2001, Copyright A. Petrisor